YOUR CHILD IS Quite Safe In THE CINEMA.

A REPLY TO MR. COMPTON MACKENZIE.

BY HERBERT WILCOX,
THE WELL-KNOWN BRITISH FILM PRODUCER.

Mr. Compton Mackenzie, in his thoughtful article on children in the cinema, has some hard things to say about the film industry—things which strike more deeply to the roots of the business than the single question: Should children be allowed to go to the pictures?

I cannot hope to rival Mr. Mackenzie as a literary pamphleteer, but many years' experience of the film business has taught me a few things about the fitness of the cinema for this or that type of audience. Mr. Mackenzie is no doubt aware that this is not the first time the mind of the film trade has been exercised on this issue.
At least one important experiment in children's cinemas has been made in London and failed to receive adequate support from the educational authorities. Others, on a similar scale, have been scarcely more successful.

THE PARENTS.

I am glad to see, however, that Mr. Mackenzie does not place the whole of the blame for the present situation on the film industry. He blames the parents for letting their children go to the pictures, and, again, he blames democracy and America.

On any or all of these grounds he may be right, though it is no part of my business to look after parents and democrats. But Mr. Mackenzie becomes more controversial when he refers to the "stultifying effect they (the films) must have upon any kind of action at all." He desires a cinema which will inspire children to action, to a kind of charge of the Light Brigade, or—at the other end of the scale—to some jolly form of crime.

"If," Mr. Mackenzie writes, "I found that a visit to a cinema had induced a boy to pawn his father's dress-suit, to exchange his mother's silver thimble for an ounce of sweets, to blackmail his sister's young man out of half-a-crown, and to eat what was left of the tinned tongue in the family larder
I should believe, while deprecating the particular forms this boy had chosen to express his energy, that the cinema could exert a positive influence for good upon the growing boy."

OPEN-AIR FILMS.

Will Mr. Mackenzie pretend that splendid open-air films like "The Virginian," boyish adventures like
"Tom Sawyer," or "Skippy," sentimental romances like "Merely Mary Ann," or the bold, bad antics of Mr. Douglas Fairbanks are "absorbing the superfluous energy" of our youngsters? I run no risk in leaving this issue with the parents whom Mr. Mackenzie condemns.
It is a question of Wardour Street versus "Sinister Street."

Mr. Mackenzie quotes the example of the London headmaster who fears to let his pupils go to the pictures in case their minds become "clogged by amusement." That is a charge against age the rather than the cinema, for a whole network of new amusements has sprung up simultaneously.

After all, is it not sheer prejudice to declare that, so far from boys still being boys, they are all simply filmgoers? Does Mr. Mackenzie believe that our children, lured forth to the memorialising spectacle of the movies, are keener on sitting still for a couple of hours than on running about outdoors?

LOCAL SHOPS DISPLAY GOWNS FOR ST. ANDREW'S BALL.

ROUND THE SHOPS.

[By "EVE"]

Lane, Crawford, Ltd.—The collection of evening models at Lane, Crawford's is characterized by variety, elegance and grace and subtle colour combinations give them charm and distinction. A lovely example is a gown in beige georgette, cut on slim lines, which has the fashionable cowl neckline, a centre of self material is worn with this model and is richly trimmed with fox fur in the same colour. Yellow net is used for a very youthful model in which godets of frills are let in on the full skirt and the bolero effect is outlined on the bodice in frills, while a large yellow velvet bow is used for the bustle effect.

To go with the gowns there are lovely evening wraps, one specially attractive model in black corded silk being trimmed with Miching. Another coat in pink broadcloth with silver tinsel is bolero length with a large ruffled collar, while a very striking effect is seen in a model in black and white, and another in red satin has a novel effect in smocking.

Maison Marnac.—The fur scarf is destined to play an important rôle this winter and will add feminine charm, not only to the tailor and formal suits, but also to evening ensembles. Maison Marnac has just received a collection of exquisite furs. Silver fox, one of the proudest aristocrats in the fur world, is used to make a scarf and stone-martin, joined in two and three pieces, is also used, as are kolinsky, blue fox and opossum. Nutria lamb is employed in a very smart model with a high double collar; this wears exceedingly well and comes into the category of less expensive furs.

Gordon's, Ltd.—Now that the dance season is here, and as long gloves for evening wear have definitely come back, our evening kit must necessarily include at least one pair of gloves. At Gordon's this week, they are showing what is correct for evening wear. Long, flesh silk gloves are de rigueur for evening; they are rather fancy, having pin tucks and net let in, and a gathering at the elbow, while those for day-wear are in a very fine quality washing suede.

Some new American shoe models have just been received; Broadheads are most popular for evening wear and are seen mostly in the court style. Besides shoes and gloves, Gordon's have a most wonderful selection of Van Raalte lingerie.

Singletons, panties, brassieres and step-ins are made of a Van Raalte material—very fine in quality with an amazing amount of wear. Ecru, lace trims these delightful undies which are mostly in flesh, peach, coral and black.

Felix Hat Shop.—The acme of elegance and chic is typified in the new evening gowns which Felix has assembled for the forthcoming St. Andrew's Ball, and in which satin, ribbed silk georgette, taffeta and lace are the materials used. Among this delightful collection I specially noticed a black georgette on simple lines, with a full, circular skirt touching the floor all around.

Colour accent is given by the long double scarf in deep red and black, draped in cowl lines in front and falling over the shoulder down the back. Another model, in pale green georgette, is cut in long slimming lines, with a plain front while a cowl trims the back. A peach satin model is entirely untrimmed except for triangles of shirring coming from one side of the bodice. One of the most striking models seen this season is a gown for great occasions—a stately model in red ribbed silk. The bodice is cut to the belt in the back. The material is draped into the suggestion of a yoke over the hips and the skirt fullness, concentrated in the back, spreads into a graceful bustle effect. A white taffeta frock has quite a plain front while two bias ruffles form the bustle at the back.

Whiteaway's.—If you pay a visit to Whiteaway's this week you will find among the new arrivals a charming collection of new hats. The latest colours are casting a hint as the trend for winter. Lincen-green and the really dark bottle variety are like the maroon range, admirable for the new coquille, trimmed hat, turned up after the way of the hunters of old. I noticed in this collection several "triborne" and Robin Hood models, either trimmed with a smart knot of ribbon or richly feathered. One specially chic model, I thought, was a fine dark brown felt which was trimmed at the right side of the small brim with a small coquettish feather. There are also very attractive models in the new elongated shapes that may be likened to boats, and also the veritable pork pie styles exhumed from the 18th century eccentric fashions. All these new hat styles are becoming to most women, and I would advise a visit before they are snapped up. These new models are by no means expensive and are, in fact, within the range of those with only a small dress allowance.

Hi!
here's one for you.

BABY is always happy at teething time if Crisp "Ovaltine" Rusks are given to bite on when the first little teeth make their appearance.

A child's instinct is for foods which require thorough mastication. With soft foods, the instinct is soon lost, and the result is seen in irregular and crowded teeth, the forerunners of an ugly mouth.

"OVALTINE" Rusks should be included in the daily dietary of every child, because they give the exercise to ensure sound, healthy teeth, and the proper development of the jaws.

In addition, the "OVALTINE" gives these Rusks their fascinating flavour, renders them easy of digestion and gives them a much higher nutritive value than ordinary rusks.

BRINGING BEAUTY TO YOUR HANDS.

SOME NAIL-GROOMING RULES.

When the gap between the flesh of the finger-tip and the nail is too wide the trouble arises through the bristles of your nailbrush, and in this increased gap more dust accumulates in the future.

If you can dispense with nail brushes so much the better; then cut a lemon in half and press the finger-tips into the cut surface. The juice will effectually clean the nail, and, at the same time, whiten the skin around it.

Use a Bleach.

To improve your nail tips pass an orange stick dipped in a nail bleach under them. It is necessary to use some kind of bleach under the nails to rid the parts of the stain and the more stubborn dust and grime that remain there.

It is wise, now and again at least, to use a touch of cold cream or liquid oil under the nail tip, and around the base of the nail to keep the cuticle and the flesh under the nail tips soft and pliable. After doing this, wipe off the oil or your liquid polishes will not stay on.

Even when the nail tips are perfectly clean and free from stains they are often quite colourless. A very little nail whitener should be applied with the end of the orange stick. Too much will be lumpy and uneven. Now smooth it carefully under the tip itself, keeping it as clear from the flesh as possible. Wipe off any surplus that remains.

Do Not Cut: File.

Many girls spoil their nails by cutting them. This is a mistake. To keep one's nails at the desired length a few minutes spent in gentle filing is all that is necessary.

If, by inadvertence, the nails have been allowed to grow beyond the length at which they can be shortened by filing, they may be cut with specially-constructed curved nail-scissors, and afterwards filed to remove all unevenness. After filing, the edge of the nail should be bevelled.

The Correct Length.

Great care should be exercised in shaping the nail. Very long nails are affected-looking, and suggest "claws," and exaggerated pointed nails are even uglier. The correct length leaves the nail to exactly follow the shape, and sheathes the tip of the finger.

Thus tapering fingers look well with fairly pointed nails, whereas a spatulate finger-tip necessitates a broad-trimmed finger-nail. Much can be done to improve an ugly finger-tip by pinching it between the finger and thumb of the other hand, both after washing and occasionally during the day.

To Trim the Cuticle.

In most manicure sets is included a cuticle knife for trimming away any skin which has encroached upon the nail. This should be now gently passed round the base and sides of the nail, but never—excepting perhaps in the case of the formation of a hangnail—touch the cuticle with the scissors.

Finally, never attempt to manicure your nails without first soaking them for at least five minutes in warm water to which a few drops of simple liniment of benzoin has been added. The benzoin softens and perfumes the water and assists in whitening the nails.

FINE PUDDING FOR INVALIDS.

This is an excellent form of easily digestible sick-bed sweet-and, so far as its food contents go, has as much good in it as many a full meal. It is made as follows:—

Stew 1 lb. of apples with sugar and, if it is allowed by the doctor, cinnamon flavouring. Place in a pie dish. Break or crumble six pieces of Ovaltine Rusks and spread over the top. Boil 1 teacup of milk, stir in the yolks of two eggs and one desertspoonful of sugar. Stir over the fire till it thickens. Pour over the rusks. Beat whites of eggs stiffly with a very little sugar. Spread this over too. Firm and slightly brown in the oven.

ROUND THE SHOPS.

The Dolly Vardon Hat Shop.—Those who are looking for really smart gowns for the forthcoming St. Andrew's Ball—and who isn't?—would be well advised to pay a visit to this charming shop in Chater Road, where some of the latest and most becoming evening frocks are on view. They are all from the most celebrated American houses and have that distinctive note of elegance which one has come to associate with the Dolly Vardon Hat Shop. The debutante, especially, is well catered for in some of most fetching girlish models. The prices, I thought, were extremely reasonable.

The Book Shop and Bible Depot.—A visit to this shop in Wyndham Street is always a joy to book-lovers. It is really a surprise the number and variety of books there are these days for children. Children's and religious books are a speciality and some very attractive volumes are shown—the very thing for Christmas gifts. There is also a lovely selection of Dean's Dolls; these hygienic toys are just the thing for the times and the "Princess" and "Daisy" dolls would please any little girl, while bunnies and teddies should appeal to the younger child.

SOME TEA-TIME RECIPES.

Ginger Shortbread.

One pound flour, 1/2 lb. butter, 4oz. castor sugar, 3 level teaspoons ground ginger. Mix butter and sugar together, gradually work in sieved flour and ginger, knead into a smooth paste, roll out and press into a shallow oblong baking tin lined with paper. Prick well all over and bake in a moderate oven until pale brown and firm. Divide in half; when cool remove from tin and sandwich with this filling: Cream together 4oz. icing sugar and 9oz. butter, add 1/2 cup preserved ginger chopped finely and 1 teaspoon ginger syrup. Ice the top with white icing flavoured with ginger essence.

Nut and Fruit Cake.

Half a cupful of butter, one cupful castor sugar. Cream these together. Mix in two cupfuls sifted flour, add one cupful of orange juice. Then add the following, mixed together: Half a cup seedless raisins, half a cup candied cherries, half a cup finely chopped nuts, a quart cup candied orange peel, a quarter cup candied lemon peel. Stir all well together, then mix four teaspoonful of baking powder and half a teaspoonful of salt into a cupful flour and beat well into the mixture. Lastly, fold in the stiffly beaten whites of three eggs. Bake in a loaf tin for one hour in a moderate oven.

THE CHILDREN'S CORNER.

MY LESSONS.

[BY CAROL BRAHMS.]

Every time they stop me,
Every time they say
"Do you like Your Lessons?"
In a Very Kind Way.
Well, I can't disappoint them,
So I fidget with my dress.
Blink, and swallow quickly,
And I try to say "Yes!"

What would Aunties look like,
Sposing one fine day
They asked about my lesson
In their Very Kind Way—
Would their smiles go back again,
Would their eyes be sad,
Sposing—in a whisper—
I replied, "Not End!"

Well, when I'm an Auntie,
And happen to be out
If there should be a little girl
Happening about,
I shall ask her (Very Kind)
But Rather Careless "Oh,
You don't like Lessons, do you?"
And the Answer will be "No!"

THE PUSSY WHO WENT TO CHURCH.

When Winnie knelt down in church one Sunday she felt some thing soft rubbing against her, and looking down, she saw Puss. "Look, mummy!" whispered Winnie; "Peter has come to church." "Perhaps he will keep quiet," said mother. But Peter had to go out, and when the service was over Winnie found him waiting for her. After that Peter always followed Winnie to church, but he waited quietly in the porch.

MR. BUNNY.

Tim had had a short-haired grey rabbit given him. And Tim only had to call "Mr. Bunny!" and the rabbit would come jumping over the lawn. They had fine fun together. Mr. Bunny was very happy in his hutch, which Tim kept ever so clean. Tim got him juicy cabbage-leaves, and carrots, and lettuce.

One day Tim had some toffee given him. Mr. Bunny sat up watching him eat it. "Would you like some?" Tim offered him a piece. And Mr. Bunny ate it!

No one had ever heard of a rabbit liking toffee.

Daddy and mummy gave him some. Tim's aunties and uncles brought him some, and Mr. Bunny was so fond of it that Tim said he would eat it all day long if he had it.

A TERRIBLE CHARGE.

If that is so, how comes it that a year or two ago the King headed a £1,000,000 appeal for playing fields so that our boys and girls need no longer play in the streets? Mr. Mackenzie thinks that these unearned-for youngsters were being "clogged with amusement" at the pictures, and that, in any case, games are a menace to democracy.

Worse than this, our young people are "receiving entirely false impressions of life" from films. That indeed is a terrible charge, since it involves not only the cinema, but plays, pantomimes, and the vast bulk of idealistic literature on which the youthful mind is fed. If children are only to receive true, as opposed to false, impressions of life, then why should their imaginations be given any chance of all; why should they be allowed to read "Treasure Island," "Dick Turpin," "Peter Pan," "King Solomon's Mines," or absorb any "false impression" of the world around them?

We are not told, in the meantime, what truths the cinema should insist upon for its younger patrons—whether it should be some form of imaginative truth or just the bare and beastly truth which a merciful democracy withholds from us until we are grown up.

"POOR LITTLE THINGS."

"The poor little things," says

Mr. Mackenzie, "have been misled into supposing that life will unroll itself before them like a film which they can sit back and enjoy." I can only remind Mr. Mackenzie that, in the majority of homes, at least of the poorer classes, the boy who returns home late from the pictures receives what is technically known as a "bash" from his aggrieved parent. This bash is the truth as the child knows it. It is sheer nonsense to suppose that the child does not know the difference between its own life and the life described for it on the screen. I believe it was Dr. Johnson who, at the end of an interminable argument concerning the truth of things, threw something through the window and declared: "Sir, I know that that window is broken. That is the truth." I have not the actual words of this occasion before me, but I have the sense, and it seems to me apposite.

UNSUITABLE.

The "poor little things" of Mr. Mackenzie's imagination sufficiently know the difference between the Janet Gaynor who washes up on the screen and the sister Jane who does the same thing at home. It is a piece of sophistry to declare otherwise. This is not to deny that a large number of films are quite unsuitable for children.

As, however, Mr. Mackenzie has already blamed the parents for letting their offspring lapse on such films, there is little more to be said on the subject. Unfortunately, he goes further, and wants to put down the visits of children to the cinema by legislation—but not, he says, in any "kill-joy spirit." In what spirit, then, would children receive such an ordinance? Not with shouts and hoorays, we may be sure of that, but presumably with a childish confidence that in taking their pleasure away we were doing our best for them.

WHAT A CHILD!

What a child is this. For if any joy, surely, is to be killed it is that of the child deprived of his delighted gurgle over Mickey Mouse. Flip the Frog, the glorious animal life, the wonderful trains, airplanes, mountains, skies, fights, adventures and swordplay which we all, out of our childishness, enjoy.

I sincerely hope that the time will not come when films offering only "goodness," beauty and truth will be put before children, as Mackenzie proposes. Such a child would be an adult of almost frigidity philosophic bearing.

But, assuming such a child came into being, and films of such a kind were demanded by them, then Mr. Mackenzie has my assurance that the film world would be the first to supply the demand. When a children's cinema is really wanted it will be found. In America, for example, children have not taken kindly to sound films, and producers are striving to find pictures which will please them.

I am sure Mr. Mackenzie is no more anxious for us to make films from philanthropic motives than he is for publishers to do the same. Films, like books, must be made to pay. At present the demand for children's films is not one which can be considered a profitable market.

And so, as Mr. Mackenzie points out, children are getting the films which their parents deserve.

BUT ONLY FOR A HOLIDAY.

Miss Elissa Landi, the English actress who during a year's stay in America has sprung from comparative obscurity to film fame, arrived at Plymouth last month for a brief holiday.

In private, Miss Landi is the wife of Mr. John Lawrence, a London barrister, and he was waiting at Plymouth to welcome her.

Miss Landi went to America in August last year and when she appeared on the stage in New York five different film companies sought her services.

Asked if she would appear in British films she said: "British producers had three years in which to try me out and they would not. I had to go to the United States and the producers there have now first claim on me. I don't want to be bitter and I would love to work in England but in the circumstances I cannot."

MISS BENITA HUME GOING TO HOLLYWOOD.

Miss Benita Hume, the British film star, has signed a £60,000 contract to appear in Hollywood for R.K.O., the powerful American film corporation, which also starts production in England shortly.

Miss Hume, who has starred in many British films, is at present making a new talkie, "Service for Ladies," at Elstree, with Mr. Leslie Howard.

"I hate the idea of leaving England," Miss Hume said to me today, "but what can you do?"

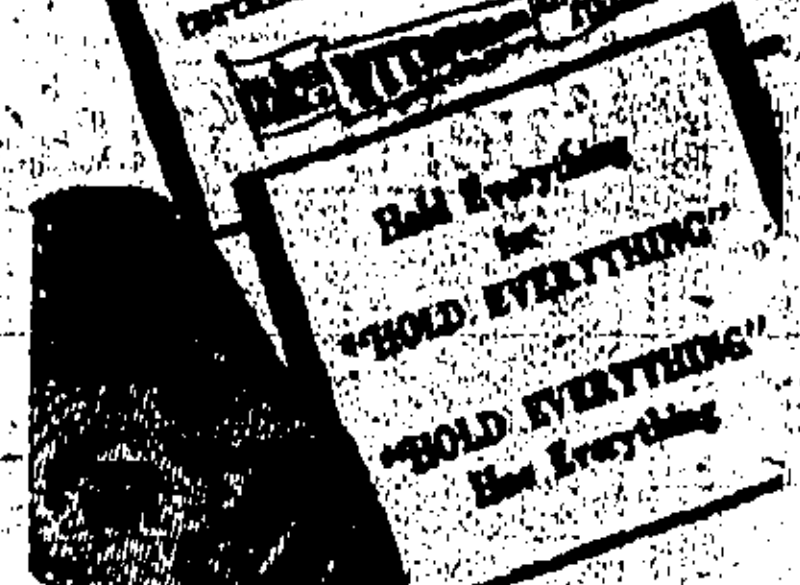

When I came back from New York last year everybody thought I had been turned down by the American film companies, though actually I had had offers from them all. They thought I was bluffing, but I wasn't.

I am finishing my present picture, then probably making one for Warners here, and then leaving for America."

MOVIE NEWS

ON THE SCREEN IN HONG KONG.

"A WARM CORNER."

LESLIE HENSON AT THE KING'S.

"The other day, I was one of the fortunate few, who were invited by the management of the King's Theatre to a preview of the screen version of the famous London success, 'A Warm Corner.' It is a British production by the Gaumont-British Studios, and, in my opinion, is one of the funniest, if not the funniest, picture ever shown on the local screen. This rather sweeping statement will perhaps be more readily understood when it is mentioned that the leading role is in the hands of Leslie Henson, who is generally acknowledged to be England's greatest comedian.

It is some years since I saw Leslie Henson in London and longer still since I knew him in France as the leading light in the Fifth Army Concert Party. It was there, with the greatest interest and delight that I saw and heard him again on the screen at the King's Theatre in 'A Warm Corner,' which is an ideal vehicle for his eccentric humour. He gives a very fine performance as Mr. Corner, the pandering, middle-aged corn-plaster manufacturer, and finds himself in a very warm corner indeed!

Connie Ediss, another famous veteran, who portrays his very nouveau-riche and suspicious spouse, is perfectly cast and will keep the King's Theatre audiences in fits of laughter next week. Heather Thatcher is excellent as a vamp on the Lido, and wears some stunning clothes, especially in the way of beach-pyjamas.

The technique and photography of the picture are almost perfect and go to show the great strides that British productions have made recently. There is a freshness and charm which is typically English and the humour, though side-splitting and at times, hilarious, is wholesome throughout.

"A Warm Corner" opens at the King's Theatre on Saturday.

R.F.F.

"HOLD EVERYTHING."

As a musical comedy star, Winnie Lightner has long been a familiar figure, singing one of her rollicking blues songs before a prancing line of beautiful chorus girls. For three years she was one of the stars of George White's "Scandals," and also appeared as the featured player in "Gay Paree."

Now she duplicates her stage appearances in "Hold Everything," the all-colour Vitaphone production recently completed by Warner Bros., and scheduled to open an engagement at the Queen's Theatre to-day.

Other prominent parts in this hilarious all-talking musical comedy are played by Georges Carpentier, famous French boxer, Joe E. Brown, Sally O'Neil, Edmund Beeson, Dorothy Reiver, Bert Roach and Jack Curtis. Roy Del Ruth directed.

LADIES OF LEISURE.

One of the most difficult tasks that confronts the sound technicians in motion picture studios to-day is to reproduce familiar sounds convincingly. This is not as simple as it might be. For the microphone, faithfully truthful when registering voices, has a tendency to magnify small, unimportant noises.

Just how difficult this problem of reproducing sound it was illustrated during the making of "Ladies of Leisure," the Columbia all-talking drama now playing at the Central Theatre with Barbara Stanwyck, Lowell Sherman and Ralph Graves in the leading roles. A certain scene called for Ralph Graves to open a telegram. The "sound mixer" in the monitor room that listens in on all the sound and dialogue, revealed that the tearing of the paper had produced a noise that sounded exactly like the rattat-tat of machine gun fire. Some ingenious person discovered that if the paper was dampened, it would not rattle at all.

"Ladies of Leisure" is an absorbing story, based on one of the greatest of Belasco's stage successes. Roles in support of the three leads are played by Marie Prevost, Juliette Compton, Nance O'Neil, George Fawcett and Johnnie Walker. Frank Capra directed.

THE BRAT.

Stronger than ardent desires for Rolls-Royces and pink stucco palaces with swimming pools, is a fond hope, foremost in the mind of every film player. That hope is that some day, somehow, somehow he or she will get a "break."

A "break," in the language of Hollywood, means an opportunity, a role so well suited to the player's personality that fame and long-term contracts will follow as a matter of course.

Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell found their "break" in the memorable "7th Heaven." Marie Dressler in "Anna Christie." Constance Bennett in "Common Clay." These and similarly fortunate players who have also achieved this ambition all had some measure of success before the "break" came.

The most recent addition to these exalted ranks is Sally O'Neil, who plays the title role in "The Brat" which is showing to-day at the King's Theatre. The captivating little Irish actress has been in pictures since 1925, and has had excellent notices since her featured debut in Marshall Neilan's "Mike," but despite all her efforts and her undoubted ability, the elusive combination of circumstances that bring about the "break" somehow never seemed to jell.

Then last summer, things began to happen. The Fox Film Corporation was searching for an actress to take the title role in "The Brat," Maude Fulton's famous play. The actress had to possess unusual qualities. The role required her to be emotional, impudent, curious and sincere. There were few who appeared suited to the part.

When Miss O'Neil arrived for a test, however, there was no further discussion. She seemed perfectly fitted for the role, and the test confirmed it. The picture was made, and when studio executives saw the finished print Miss O'Neil was handed a long-term contract. Her Film stars marry and unmarried with such bewildering rapidity that it is quite impossible to keep track of whom "Mrs." is whose! Here are a few scraps of the latest matrimonial information from screenland, though we will not guarantee that all of it will be correct by the time this appears in print.

RICHARD DIX MARRIED.

Richard Dix was married at Yuma Arizona, a few hours after informing his friends in Los Angeles that he had become engaged.

The friends scarcely had time to offer their congratulations before Dix and his fiancée, Miss Winifred Cox, daughter of a retired merchant, were on their way to Yuma in the film star's fast roadster.

They were married by a justice of the peace.

LEATRICE JOY.

Leatrice Joy, the film star, was married recently to Mr. William Spencer Hook, a wholesale grocer of Los Angeles. Miss Joy obtained a divorce from Mr. John Gilbert in 1928.

"PERFECT LOVER" TO WED?JOHN GILBERT AND BEWITCHING MEXICAN STAR.

With admiration for each other written all over their faces, Lupe Velez, the bewitching Mexican film star, and John Gilbert, the "perfect lover," said good-bye to each other before Lupe set sail for Europe.

In reply to inquiries as to whether they had made any marriage plans, Lupe declared: "I won't say yes or no, or even whether we are engaged—maybe later."

"break" had come. Allan Dinehart and Frank Albertson have the masculine leads in "The Brat," with Virginia Cherrill, June Collyer and Wm. Collier, Sr., in the other featured roles. John Ford directed the production.

GREEK STREET.

LONDON STREET SCENES.

"For the 'talkie' production 'Greek Street,' Sinclair Hill, the director of the film utilised London backgrounds and took night 'shots' of Piccadilly Circus, Shaftesbury Avenue, Soho Square and many another.

"Greek Street" is a romantic story of a little cabaret girl and a playboy played by charming Sari Maritza, Sinclair Hill's discovery, the excellent character study provided by William Freshman as the young London Italian, and it is confidently predicted that this picture will prove to be one of the most successful talkies ever produced in Great Britain.

The film has many tuneful musical numbers, "The Undress Parade," "I've a Little Love Song" and "Share You Lips With Me, Chérie," being particularly outstanding.

John Gilbert, "the perfect lover" of the screen, arrived at Southampton in the liner Europa.

Beyond denying that Miss Lupe Velez had sailed in the same boat, Mr. Gilbert would say nothing about his rumoured romance with the film vamp.

Mr. Gilbert then drove away to a destination which he would not disclose.

FILM STAR TO WED HER MANAGER.

ENGLISH GIRL AND MAN WHO HELPED HER TO FAME.

I am able to announce a real life romance of the British stage and screen, says the film critic of the Sunday Pictorial.

Miss Elizabeth Allan, who has had leading parts in several English films, and is now playing opposite the Hollywood star Leslie Howard in the Paramount-British film "The Head Waiter," is to marry, her manager, Mr. W. J. O'Brien, who is well known in screen and theatrical circles.

Some twelve months ago Miss Allan, who was playing in "Michael and Mary" at the St. James's Theatre, walked into Mr. O'Brien's office in Bond-street with a letter of introduction from Herbert Marshall, the stage star.

"I want to have a shot at talkies," said Miss Allan. "I can do," replied Mr. O'Brien, who was impressed by her good looks and personality.

As a result she was given a test and a small part in a film being made at Twickenham called

"Abbi." She did so well that she became much in demand and finally was asked to play in a big film now being produced at Elstree by a leading American firm.

Miss Allan is the youngest daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. W. Allan, of Skegness, and was recommended to go on the stage by the headmistress of a famous Quaker school near Warrington.

She is now considered one of the most promising of our talkie stars.

Mr. O'Brien, who represents the interests of several of our leading stage and screen stars, told me that the wedding would take place in January.

A HONEYMOON IN SWEDEN.

H. W. AUSTIN AND HIS FILM
STAR BRIDE.

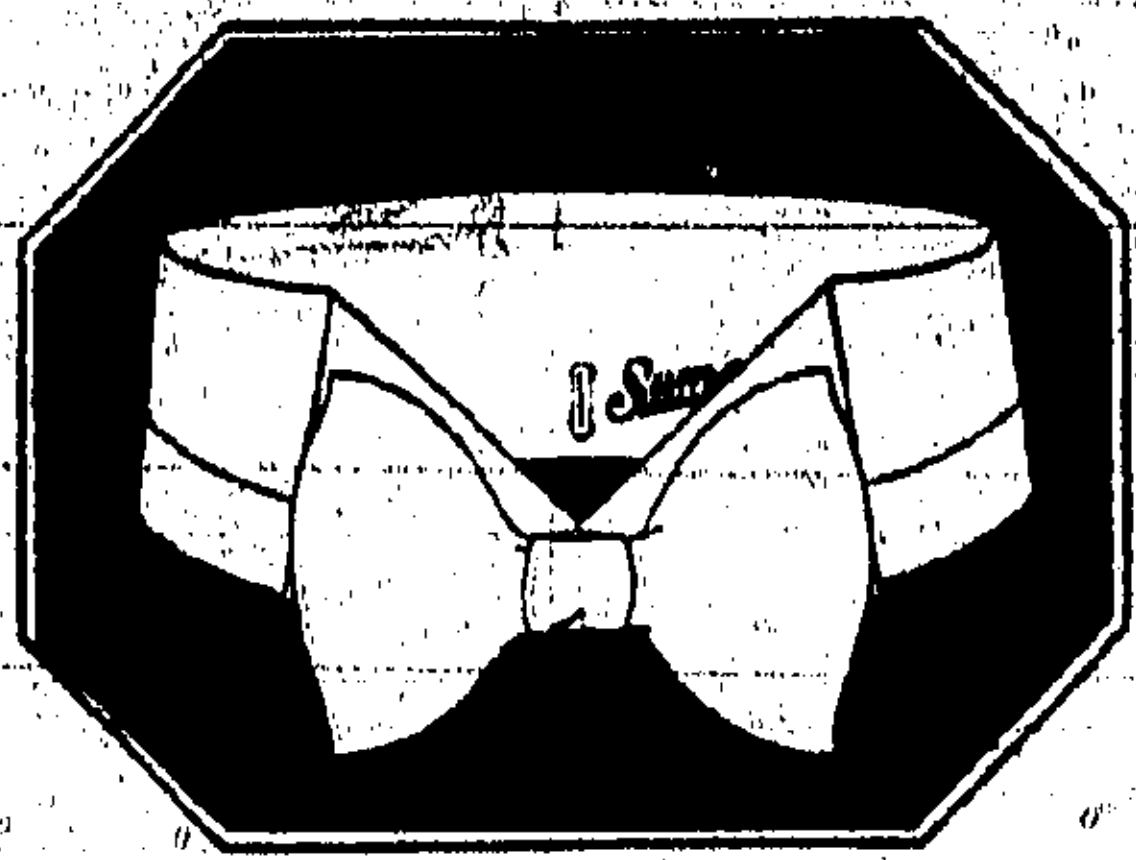

Miss Phyllis Konstam, the film actress, and Mr. H. W. Austin, who were married on November 14, spent their honeymoon in Sweden.

Mr. Austin has frequently played tennis with the King of Sweden, and their decision to go to that country arose from this friendly association on the tennis court. They will undoubtedly meet the King and Queen of Sweden while they are in Stockholm.

Miss Konstam has made successful appearances in numerous British films, and, as a compliment to Mr. Alfred Hitchcock, who gave Miss Konstam her first chance, his little daughter Pat was one of the bridesmaids.

Miss Konstam's wedding dress of oyster satin was worn with the veil of old lace worn by her mother. The wedding took place at Hampton Court Palace.

After the honeymoon Miss Konstam will resume her film acting and will probably work for one of the companies at Elstree.

To-day's approved dress collar style—a collar with broad, square-cut wings set well apart—is interpreted in a most distinguished manner by each of the four Summit shapes. Each has subtle differences in the angle of the wings, the width of the opening, the depth of the band... the complete range making it a simple matter to select a dress collar which is an individual expression of correct style.

NEW TERRITORIES MURDER.

OLD WOMAN HACKED TO DEATH.

DASTARDLY CRIME BY ARMED ROBBERS.

An aged pension woman, 68 years of age, was murdered by robbers who raided a lonely cottage in a village in the Taipo district.

Four men entered and demanded all the money that was in the house. There were at the time only the old woman and her daughter-in-law in the place, the latter, at the time the robbers entered, being in another part of the house.

The old woman, instead of complying with the robbers' demand by showing them where the money was, remained silent, whereupon the robbers started to ransack the place. In the midst of their work they were disturbed by the piercing screams of the old woman who shouted to her daughter-in-law for help.

Almost Decapitated.

The robbers set upon her with knives, and when the police arrived at the scene later they found the old woman's head almost hacked off, so numerous were the cuts.

The daughter-in-law was paralysed by fright and was not able to give a coherent account of what happened. The family had recently moved to Taipo from Shing Mun Valley, which has been resumed by the Government in connection with the Shing Mun Reservoir scheme. The robbers apparently were under the impression that the Government had given the family monetary compensation and probably hoped to find some cash on the premises. The husband of the murdered woman was at Tsun Wan at the time of the robbery being engaged in the cultivation of pineapples.

INTERPORT CRICKETERS ENTERTAINED.

TRIBUTE TO SHANGHAI'S BOWLING FROM CAPTAIN OF HONG KONG TEAM.

"OLD FRIENDSHIPS RENEWED: NEW FRIENDS MADE ON CRICKET FIELD."

That the Shanghai team was better than the team selected to represent Hong Kong and that they won because Hong Kong was defeated by better bowling, was the opinion expressed by the skipper of the Hong Kong team, Mr. T. E. Pearce, in the course of a speech at the Cricket Interport Dinner held at the Roof Garden of the Hong Kong Hotel last night.

There was a very large attendance which was presided over by Mr. H. R. B. Hancock. After proposing the loyal toast, Mr. Hancock proposed the toast of Shanghai and Hong Kong, in the course of which he said that the interport matches, apart from other things, gave a chance to everyone to renew old friendships and make new ones and in a larger way, helped to cement friendship which should exist between British communities in the Far East.

Mr. D. W. Leach, the Captain of the Shanghai side, said that he thought Shanghai would because, on the whole, they had a better side.

Mr. Pearce, after giving his views on why Hong Kong lost, added: "What does it matter who won, so long as we play the game in the right spirit and uphold the traditions which this interport week holds for Hong Kong and Shanghai."

SHANGHAI SIDE "BETTER BALANCED."

Mr. H. R. B. Hancock proposing the toast of the Shanghai and Hong Kong teams said: "As President of the H.K.C.C., it is my privilege and very pleasant duty to-night to propose the toast of the Shanghai and Hong Kong Interport teams. I do not intend to refer to the game itself as we shall hear all about that later from the respective captains, but I should like to congratulate Donald Leach and his merry men on their well deserved victory. In my humble opinion the better side won. It has been a great pleasure to all of us to have had the Shanghai side here during the last few days, and I hope you Donald Leach and your fellow conspirators have enjoyed your visit as much as we have enjoyed having you here."

"It was a great grief to me that I was not taking an active part in this Interport match. My old friend 'Lobster' (H. B. Reed) I know feels the same about it, but it was our own fault, as we were on the Selection Committee and with a little persuasion might have worked it."

Absent Friends.

"There are several friends I miss from the Shanghai side. First and foremost, Ivo Barrett—always a terror to the hearts of Hong Kong bowlers—and Doc O'Hara—always a cheerful foe. I think 'Tam' probably misses the Doc more than anyone else, especially at these Interport dinners. And then there is 'Barney'—apart from his wicket-keeping and stubborn defence as a No. 1 batsman. We shall all of us who know him miss that wonderful duo of his with Donald Leach, which for a long time has been one of the star turns at these Interport dinners. It is good to see 'Torrice' here again. I notice he still scowls at you when you are lucky to stop his beat-in-swinging. And also that stalwart guardian of the peace, who once again has proved a thorn in our side."

"As regards Hong Kong, we are lucky in having 'Tam' still taking a very active part in the game, and I hope he will keep it up till his son comes out here to carry on the family reputation. I hope the rest of the side won't think me ungenerous if I refer to only one other member namely 'Acci.' As a cricketer he never spares himself and puts every ounce of energy he has got into the game. For his side he is unbeatable and a splendid example to all young cricketers in the Colony."

"I think I am right in saying that these Interport games between Hong Kong and Shanghai have been going on for a period of 65 years and I hope nothing will prevent their continuance. They can do nothing but good. Apart from other things they give us a chance of renewing old friendships and making new ones, and do a lot, I think, in a larger way to cement the friendship which should exist between British communities in the Far East."

"Keep Traditions Unspoiled."

"I think most of you know how deeply interested I am in cricket, and how I love the game, and I hope all of you younger members of both sides will always maintain the best traditions of the game and see that it is kept as unspoiled as possible. The future of the game is in your hands."

"The name of 'Barrie' has been brought prominently before us during this week in connection with the excellent A.D.C. production at the Theatre. And before sitting down I should like to repeat to you the concluding remarks for Sir James Barrie's speech when he proposed the toast of Cricket at a luncheon party given to the Australian XI on their arrival in London in 1926. I have referred to it on a previous occasion but there may be some of you who have not heard it or who had forgotten it. It is so excellent I make no apology for referring to it again and I hope it will be taken to heart by all young cricketers. Sir James Barrie said: 'Do not let us forget that the great glory of cricket does not lie in Test matches or county championships. It is to be found rather on our village greens, the very cradle of cricket. The very name Test match may in time be forgotten, but long after that I think your far off progeny will still hear the crack of the bat from those bumpy old greens.'

"I should like to take this opportunity of thanking all those who have worked so hard on the arrangements in connection with this Interport week. There is always a lot of work to be done and we are lucky in finding such willing helpers. It would seem invidious to mention any special names but I should like to thank Mr. Mitchell, our acting secretary, and Mr. Collis who in a quiet unobtrusive and efficient way have done a tremendous lot for us."

"Gentlemen I propose the toast of the Shanghai and Hong Kong Interport Cricket teams."

DONALD LEACH'S REPLY.

Mr. D. W. Leach, captain of the Shanghai team, in replying to the toast proposed by the Chairman said: "This is rather a difficult occasion for the captain of the Shanghai team. On previous occasions we have been either defeated or have managed to draw. This time I had two speeches prepared, one for a draw and one for defeat (laughter), but now we have won, I am rather at a loss!"

"First of all, I must say how glad we are to come here once more and we must thank our hosts who have been more than overpowering, since the interport anyhow (laughter). Coupled with the name of the hosts, I would like to thank the ladies of Hong Kong who have been very charming to us and have made our stay very pleasant in every way. We owe a great debt to Mr. Pearce for all he has done for us and Eric Mitchell has also done a lot for us. He has not find my lost blazer yet (laughter)."

I suppose it is time I said something about the interport match. It is rather difficult—I was not disappointed that I lost the toss because I am used to that. I lost the toss on twelve consecutive occasions before coming here and this was the thirteenth time. We arrived on the 13th of November but it seems to be quite a lucky day. I read in the Sunday papers what sounded like the Dempsey-Carpenter fight, when the Hong Kong skipper said "We will win" and I said "We will win." I think our side seemed to be a little bit better balanced (loud laughter). If you will excuse me, Mr. Chairman, I would like to thank the Shanghai team for the way they have backed me up. They played as a team and they did not need any instructions. I really would like to thank them for the way they played and especially "Torry" Wilson who is getting sore and yellow (laughter). I would ask the Shanghai team to drink to the health of our hosts."

MR. T. E. PEARCE.

Replying to the Chairman on behalf of the Hong Kong team, Mr. T. E. Pearce thanked the visiting cricketers for the way they had responded to the toast of the president, despite the fact that the Hong Kong team were not the heroes of the match.

"I hold the view," said Mr. Pearce, "and I am sure many of us who are keen cricketers will support that view, that the side we had to play against was a very well balanced side. They had the necessary spin bowlers and despite what the newspaper critic had to say, I don't think we can beat them nine times out of ten, even though the wicket should assist us. Inspired by captaincy that we seldom see and the cricket played by that captain and supported by really very good fielding—I doubt very much whether you can see better fielding in the class of cricket we play—I agree with Mr. Hancock that the Shanghai team thoroughly deserved to win and I am sure nobody on my side will gainsay that fact."

"I am more than pleased to have this opportunity to congratulate the Shanghai side on their win. I am pleased to say I have played on the winning side more often than I have on the losing side and so I can afford to be just a little generous (laughter). I am not sorry that they won, because after all, what does it matter who wins (hear, hear), so long as we play the game in the right spirit and uphold the traditions which this interport week holds for Hong Kong and Shanghai." (Hear, hear.)

A Personal Matter.

"After paying a great tribute to the Shanghai bowling, Mr. Pearce said he did not grudge them their victory. He concluded his speech by speaking on what he described as a "personal matter." Mr. Pearce said: "Perhaps I myself have played once too often." (Cries of "No, No.") "I know you would say 'No,'" said Mr. Pearce, "but I said eighteen months ago in Shanghai that that was my 'swan song' in Shanghai, and I think this is my swan song to-night. Keep up the traditions of the interport week. The friends you make in this week are names you always remember—sterling fellows who never let you down. Among the men you meet here today is one who has just returned from home—Mr. R. E. O. Bird—who appears 25 years younger than he was when he last played interport cricket. That little ground out there holds great memories for me. I am very sorry to chuck it. Keep it as it is—let's keep it to the country house cricket that we all enjoy. I hope the young fellows from Shanghai and Hong Kong will be playing for many more years to come. We should keep the same old spirit going as long as we can. I should like to thank everybody for their loyal support to the side. I am sorry we did not win, but everybody did their best as the cricketers know and it is because we were defeated by better bowling that we lost the match."

The Guests.

La-Col. T. A. Robertson, O.B.E., proposed the toast of the guests and the Bishop of Victoria, the Rt. Rev. C. R. Purpy replied. A very pleasing selection of music was given during the dinner by the Hong Kong Hotel Classical Orchestra and after dinner, the proceedings were enlivened by contributions by Messrs. C. W. E. True, J. Henderson and C. R. Anderson. Mr. Henderson's feminine impersonation was a distinct success."

JAPANESE ROBBED.

TWO MEN SENTENCED AT SESSIONS.

The trial of three men and a woman on charges of robbery and receiving property stolen from the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Kotabe, 587, Nathan Road, concluded at the Criminal Sessions yesterday before Mr. Justice Lindsell.

Wong Wah, the first accused, who pleaded guilty to the charge of robbery along with others, was sentenced to three years' imprisonment with hard labour.

The three others were charged with receiving property stolen from the house. Mok Kam, the second accused, was found guilty of the charge, and the jury were agreed in a verdict of not guilty in respect of the fourth prisoner, the woman Luk Fuk. The verdicts against the third accused, Ng Kau, was divided, four of the jurymen finding him guilty, while three disagreed.

His Lordship pointed out to the jury that they would have to retire and reconsider their decision in regard to the third prisoner. A verdict which could be accepted must have a majority of at least five to either way. Accordingly the jury retired again and returned a verdict of not guilty by five to two.

Banishment's Career.

Mok Kam, against whom the verdict was unanimous in respect of the receiving charge, pleaded guilty to another indictment for returning to the Colony during his period of banishment. His record produced by Mr. Somerset Fitzroy showed that he was first convicted in 1925 for receiving stolen property and banished for ten years. He returned during the same year and received a total sentence of five years for larceny. He was again deported, but returned in 1929 to be imprisoned for eight months and rebanned for ten years in February this year.

His Lordship sentenced prisoner to two years' imprisonment on the receiving charge and three years on the other, making a total term of five years.

The third accused and the woman were discharged.

A VERY BAD LOT.

HABITUAL THIEF GIVEN SIX MONTHS.

Lo Chui was charged before the Kowloon Magistrate yesterday with the theft of a coat, a gold watch and a silver cigarette case, the property of Mr. D. C. Wilson from 3, Aiuui Villas, on May 24, last.

Detective Sergeant Pearson, who was in charge of the case, told the Court that Mr. Wilson left his coat on a settee in the drawing room of the above address and when he returned later he found that it had disappeared. The matter was reported to the police and two days after, a man was caught pawning the articles and was arrested. When charged he said that they were given him by Lo Chui in settlement of a debt. This man, nevertheless, was given three months' imprisonment.

Continuing, Sergt. Pearson said that the defendant in this case was not found till November 17, when he was arrested at Shaokwan. He was 29 years of age and had a very bad character, having been in prison, on and off, since 1924.

Mr. Fraser:—Have you anything to say? "Oh, I don't want to say too much!"

Mr. Fraser:—The more you tell me, perhaps the better for you, still—

The Magistrate added that the man's record was so bad that if the police had applied for committal, he would certainly have made an order under the Habitual Criminal Ordinance.

"I warn you this is the last time you will be tried by me," said Mr. Fraser. "The next time you are charged, you will be sent to the Sessions."

The man was sentenced to six months' hard labour with police supervision for two years at the expiration of the sentence.

MURDER TRIAL.

FIVE CHINESE ON CAPITAL CHARGE.

JAPANESE BOY'S EVIDENCE.

A petition offering extreme difficulty for the police against a hostile mob numbering several hundred, armed with bamboo poles and other implements, was described by officers at the resumed hearing yesterday of the Tang Fao Villas murder trial before the Chief Justice (Sir Joseph Knap) and jury.

Five prisoners, including a boy, are on trial for the murder of six members of a Japanese family on September 28. They are defended by Mr. W. N. Thomas Tam, instructed by Mr. J. T. Prior, of Messrs. Wilkinson and Grist.

A small boy, one of the surviving sons of the murdered family, stated in evidence that he hid himself in a tank immediately after reaching the roof. Later he was dragged out by a Chinese and dealt a heavy blow on the head with a baseball bat. He fell back into the tank and remained there unconscious until he was found by the police.

Sgt. Doig related how he arrived on the scene on patrol with three Indian constables, when they saw a hostile mob of about 1,000 Chinese in front of the house. The party broke through the crowd into the doorway, but finding many other Chinese armed with bamboo poles and sticks running about the house, they thought it prudent to retire and fetch reinforcements.

Baton Charges.

Witness described his second visit with Sergeants Butcher and Wheeler along with about 20 Indian constables, when they carried out baton charges and gained the roof where they discovered the bodies of the murdered Japanese. Witness stated that the five prisoners were arrested in the building and he utilised one of the rooms on the ground floor as a guard room while attending to the despatch of the injured to hospital. The small boy was one of those arrested by witness, another man who was seen with him jumping out of a window of the first floor to the ground.

Sgt. Wheeler gave evidence of arresting the first accused himself. He said that while he was on the lawn trying to drive the crowd away from the house, he saw a man's face several times looking over the parapet on the roof. When witness later visited the roof he examined the tank and found a man crouching behind the shadow of the wall. He recognised him as the first accused whom he had seen earlier from the lawn.

Witness also stated that he found the small Japanese boy who had given evidence in the morning in an injured condition in a tank on the top of the stairs leading to the roof.

The Court adjourned until this morning when further police evidence will be called.

Y.M.C.A. BABY SHOW.

VERY SUCCESSFUL FUNCTION.

The first Baby Show, under the auspices of the Social Welfare Department of the Chinese Y.M.C.A., was held yesterday at the Y.M.C.A. premises, 51 Bridges Street when fifty-one boys and twenty-nine girls were entered from widely distributed parts of Hong Kong.

The judges, Drs. K. F. Ko, T. C. Yip and E. I. Tsung, had a difficult task in deciding upon the winners, but finally made the following awards:—Tang Chun Sang (boy), Mew Kau Tze (boy), Wantai, 2, Ho Shuk Yin (girl), Shumahuipo, 3, Yam Ho Nang (boy), 60, Bonham Road.

After the judging Dr. F. I. Tsung addressed the gathering on child welfare and Dr. T. C. Yip presented the prizes.

The Show was organized by Miss Au Lai Yung, of the Y.M.C.A. staff, and the prizes were donated by the Nestlé and Anglo-Swiss Condensed Milk Co., Mr. Tang Shiu Kin, J. P. and Dr. T. C. Yip.

HONG KONG, NOVEMBER 20, 1931.

BRITAIN'S "NO!" TO DUMPING.

THE Abnormal Importations Bill passed through its final stages in the House of Commons yesterday, and the formal approval of the Lords and the King will be completed this week. This is Britain's first blow of retaliation against the tariff-wall system of other nations, and the attack is causing some anxious heart-searchings. Disinterested neighbours on the Continent of Europe have spoken to Great Britain for her own good since the proposal first became practical politics, and our countrymen have been solemnly assured that great damage will be done to Great Britain, and to all the world, if the last outpost of Free Trade is abandoned. A somewhat cynical phrase might be applied to these rebukes from nations the reverse of sinless in this matter of tariffs, and British people are tired of being reminded of their duty to the world, by nations who rightly fend for themselves, and put their own interests decisively first. Our own offers to cancel war debts all round did not meet with much enthusiasm, though there has been no lack of reminders as to where Britain should show generosity and how she should remember the sacrifices, losses, and claims of others. In fact, for the last thirteen years, Britain has been the world's good-natured gentleman, and our altruism has brought us to the brink of ruin.

Perhaps the change of front is a little abrupt, and no doubt we shall be reminded of our traditional perfidy. But that is the worst of good natured people. When they turn they are apt to surprise everyone, including themselves. A generous policy in reduction of armaments, in payment of our own debts, in our attitude towards our debtors, and in this matter of tariffs, has merely been exploited and the inevitable reaction must now be faced.

The last minute effort to dump goods into Britain has been summarily stopped, and a one hundred per cent. duty will keep out a lot of fancy rubbish of the kind that people will always buy, even if they cannot afford it, and do not need it.

It is remarkable how the "Free Trade front" in Britain has collapsed. Sir WALTER RUNCIMAN, shipping magnate, banker and life-long Free Trader has led the attack with the ardour of a convert, and has warned his own countrymen in particular, and the world in general, that "it is no use taking half measures." Mr. F. C. GOODENOV, Chairman of Barclay's Bank, another pillar of Free Trade, has also admitted the necessity for tariffs, and there is hardly a personality who counts in either business or politics to challenge this view.

At the same time British people do not forget that tariffs are to be regarded as a means to an end, and that end is world Free Trade. It took many centuries for states to realise that internal customs were a hindrance to commerce and prosperity. China to-day is still struggling to free herself from the likin duties that are one of the great obstacles to peace and union in the Republic. RICHARD CORDEN was perfectly right when he spoke of free trade as "the law of god" for by that he meant that the abolition of customs would lead to greater prosperity for all and closer understanding between the nations. But RICHARD CORDEN himself admitted, in a letter recently published in the London Morning Post, that tariffs were a perfectly legitimate weapon against "slave grown produce." We are sure that would see equally clearly, were he alive to-day, that tariffs might be needed as a protection against produce fostered by subsidies and sheltered by exorbitant taxation of rivals.

NOT GOOD ENOUGH.

THERE is news from the Burgundian vineyards of a gesture of unusual generosity and bouquets. Most of the French vineyards have suffered from the bad summer, and the Burgundy is reckoned by its producers as far below the usual standard of that stalwart and renowned wine. That being so, the wine-growers of Beaune and Nuits St. Georges have officially suggested to the Minister of Agriculture that it would be a mistake to call this year's vintage from their districts "Burgundy"; it would disappoint the public and reflect on the better wines of past and future years. This is commerce approached as one of the fine arts; a great wine is matched by a grand manner on the part of those who produce it. If this does not shame the occasional miscreants in other parts of Europe who put anything into a bottle and label it "Beaune," nothing will. It may be true that the demand for wine of all sorts is decreasing, so that it might be no hardship to write off the whole yield of a bad year in the interests of the better vintages, but the attitude of the Burgundian growers remains a remarkable example of commercial candour and courage. Would that it were copied by others—to bring the case a good deal nearer home, how splendid (but how unexpected) would be the attitude of the farmer who said, "This cheese is not good enough to be called Cheshire—I shall not offer it as such." In the long run such candour ought to pay—for it is to be noted that the men of Burgundy proclaim their confidence not only in the wine which they provide but in the discernment of those who drink it. They do not argue that if it were labelled "Beaune" it would always be drunk as such; they assume that their customers would recognise the inferior article without reference to the label on the bottle, and, having been once deceived, would be again distrustful. This is, indeed, a graceful compliment to the customer—who may well return it by thinking more highly than ever of an honest wine so subtly recommended by such honest men.

Tale of the Day:

"What is flood-lighting, Bill?"
"Well, I don't rightly know. Maybe it's got something to do with Ark lamps."

"Miss England's" Pilot.

"Mr. Kaye Don is looking forward to 'a bit of a holiday.'"

He is at the moment clearing up various business affairs which accumulated during his trip to America with Miss England II. Thereafter he says he hopes to go away.

"It may seem ridiculous," he said, "for me to talk about a holiday when most people think I have been away having a lovely time in America. But, in fact, few people realise what hard work this racing business is."

He was asked whether he thought Miss England had been materially damaged in the accident at Detroit, and he replied that it would not be possible to determine that until most careful examination had been made.

It is, of course, possible that the boat may have sustained a nasty twist in turning over.

Explorers In Sudan.

The trans-African expedition sent out by the Ethnological France, last May reports satisfactory progress in the earlier stages of its long journey across the Dark Continent from west to east. The mission is now making a study of the peoples of the French Sudan, with Bamako as its temporary headquarters. On the trek from Dakar, where the expedition landed to Bamako, which required most of June and all of July, about 900 specimens of ethnographical interest were collected for the museum, and about 500 photographs taken.

Going Red.

It is reported that fashionable women, particularly those with long hair, are adopting a reddish tinge.

For once in a way the women are behind the times. Britain's long-haired men have been going red for some time.

Typhoid for Longevity.

Mr. P. Tennison Cole, the portrait painter—among his sitters have been King Edward, Joseph Chamberlain, Cecil Rhodes and Lord Allonby—puts forward an unusual explanation as to why at 70 years of age he is so fit and alert.

"While I was in India," he said, "I had typhoid fever. India has doctors with unexampled experience of typhoid. If you come through it properly you are like a mechanism that has been overhauled and renewed. You can expect an extra ten years' lease of life."

Wire from the Air.

Those who observe that the French Air Union, which runs services between London and Paris in competition with Imperial Airways, has instituted a system whereby passengers en route may send wireless telegrams at 8d. per word, will wonder who are these passengers whose business is so pressing.

Two hours, and sometimes less, is the time occupied in the actual flight, yet the company, it appears, expect "that the service will be of great utility to business people."

One is inclined to be very sceptical. There are few messages which suddenly present themselves to the mind while in mid-air so important that they will not wait for despatch until the time of arrival.

21,000,000 in Wages.

Commander C. W. Craven, managing director of Vickers-Armstrongs, speaking at Newcastle, said that the construction of the new liner, Monarch of Bermuda, now completing on the Tyne, had meant nearly 21,000,000 in direct wages to workmen engaged upon her.

The Greatest Draw.

An instance of economy comes from an important girls' school on the South Coast. A very famous musician gave a concert. Ordinarily for such a concert there would be a demand from this school for about 250 tickets. On this occasion the tickets taken numbered only 22.

Kreisler remains the biggest draw of all musicians. He is able to demand a guarantee of £700 and a proportion of further profits before he undertakes to give a recital.

The Steak-Tester.

The latest example of American ingenuity is the "steak-tester"—a gadget for determining the degree of tenderness of a steak.

★ Local Notes and Events ★

R. Abbit's Cricket Notes are unavoidably held over till to-morrow.

Two cases of typhoid and one of diphtheria were reported on Wednesday.

Charged before the Magistrate yesterday with bringing an unregistered mutai into the Colony, a Chinese named Yiu Lai-chuen was fined $10.

The mistress of a jeweller's shop at 1, Shelley Street, has made a report to the police to the effect that a workman, to whom she entrusted jewellery to the value of $150, had absconded.

With the Senior Naval Officer of the American South China Patrol, Captain C. Early, on board, the U.S.S. Mindanao arrived in port at three o'clock yesterday afternoon. She fired a salute of seventeen guns, which was returned by H.M.S. Kent.

The following unclaimed telegrams are lying at the office of the E.E. Telegraph Company:—Felipe Chera, Room 23, Empress Hotel, from Macao; Malas Salcius, Poste Restante from Brooklyn; G. J. Wells, Peninsula Hotel, from Shanghai.

The case in which two Chinese are charged before the Kowloon Magistrate with an armed robbery at 7, East Hang Village, Kowloon City district, on the evening of October 18, was again up for hearing yesterday afternoon when, after further evidence had been taken, the defendants were remanded until Tuesday, November 24.

Mr. Dwight F. Davis, the Governor-General of the Philippines, accompanied by Miss Cynthia Davis, is due to arrive in the Colony on Monday on his way back to the United States on a six months' holiday. Mr. Davis and his daughter will spend the night in the Colony as H. E. Sir William Peel's guests, and will continue their voyage on Tuesday.

The Hong Kong dollar remained unchanged yesterday, the official quotation being 1/3-9/10d on demand.

Among passengers arriving here yesterday by the s.s. Corfu were:—Mr. and Mrs. Miss Owen Hughes, Capt. P. Burgers, Mr. E. Burden, Mr. E. H. Gordon, Mr. and Mrs. Hunter, Mr. A. Harbord, Mr. R. Humphreys, Rev. W. Johnston, Capt. Jackson, Mrs. McAinch, Mr. K. Mackenzie, Mr. S. Ross, Mr. G. Stewart, Mr. J. Sutherland, Capt. Scott, Mr. J. Sheldon, and Mrs. and Miss Whitlam.

A notification issued at the Harbour Office states that a hydrographic survey will be carried out within the following area.—Bound to the north by lat. 22 deg. 19' N; to the south by lat. 22 deg. 17-2/2' N; to the east by long. 114 deg. 11-1/3' E and to the west by the eastern coast line of the Kowloon Peninsula. The survey will be conducted in a series of squares whose sides will run N. and S. E. and W. Sides of squares will be 1,000 ft. Corners of squares will be marked by sampans flying red flags. Sampans with red flags will also be stationed at intervals along two of the sides. Shipping is requested to give marked squares a wide berth.

much sickness, and a proof of the advantages of adhering to the order is to be found in the case of the Modeste. During the whole of her four and a half years' commission the issue of condensed water only, for the use of the crew, has been strictly carried out, under the supervision of the medical officer, who has had the satisfaction of seeing the result in a perfect freedom from dysentery, not a single case having occurred in the ship. This, in such long commission on the China Station, is exceptional, and we hope it will prove the value of an order which ships are sometimes tempted to break through.—Hong Kong Daily Press, November 20, 1931.

Technical details are not yet available, but one gathers that it works rather like a pressure-gauge for tyres. No doubt, the ingenious inventor will prepare a series of tables, with numbers to show appropriate degrees of tenderness for different forms of steak.

The sophisticated eater, presumably, will carry his steak-tester in his pocket, and tell the waiter to have his steak checked up for 35 units of tenderness, just as one tells a garage to check one's tyres.

The principle on which it works is the "resisting power" of the steak. This, of course, is much more humane than the old-fashioned method of testing steaks by the resisting power of the eater.

Europe's Largest Hotel.

Europe's largest hotel, which is being built at the Marble Arch, and which is sponsored by Messrs. J. Lyons & Co., will, when completed in 1933, have 2,000 bed-rooms, each self-contained with its own bathroom and lobby.

Employment will be given to 2,500 persons.

The Racing Chariot.

It is pleasant to think that they have unearthed a specimen of a real Roman racing chariot at Pompeii. The world is awaiting with great interest further technical details of how the Romans supercharged their chariots when they were out for speed records.

One would imagine that the scope of the chariot-maker in tuning up his racing model must have been strictly limited! There were no ball-bearings, after all, and the choice of lubricants must have been small. Perhaps the speed-kings of those days concentrated on tuning up the horses.

Daughter for Bebe Daniels.

Miss Bebe Daniels, the film star, has present her husband, Mr. Ben Lyon, with a daughter.

The marriage was, one recalls, a sensational one, not only because the bride's dress cost $2,000 and the wedding presents of diamonds had to be put under an extra police guard, so great was their value, but because eight famous film stars acted as bridesmaids. Among them were Miss Marion Davies, Miss Constance Talmadge, and Miss Betty Compson.

Not long ago Miss Daniels was seriously injured while making a film, and more than once she has been sent poisoned sweets. Such are the penalties of Hollywood fame.

From the Files.

Looking Back 25 Years.

The series of fortnightly dances at Kowloon Dock was opened for the season on Saturday. There was a goodly company and the programme proved most enjoyable.

Mr. C. T. Studd, the famous cricketer, who has been engaged in missionary work in China, had something to say about his favourite game when speaking last month at Victoria Park Baptist Church. Mr. Studd remarked that the making of a century was one of the great joys in the material world, but he declared that it was as nothing compared with the joy resulting from successful evangelistic work.

A meeting of Justices of the Peace will be held at the Magistracy on Tuesday, November 27, to consider applications from Samuel Jones for a publican's licence for the Prayn East Hotel, and from P. Wissing for a publican's licence for the German Tavern.—Hong Kong Daily Press, November 20, 1906.

Looking Back 50 Years.

The Hon. Hugh Low, H.M. Resident at Perak, who accomplished his Excellency the Governor and Lady Hennessy to Peking and has since remained in Hong Kong, left by the French mail yesterday for Singapore.

IT IS EXPECTED DR. SZE WILL STRONGLY RESIST THE PROPOSAL TO SEND A COMMISSION BEFORE JAPANESE EVACUATION.

NANKING, November 19.

CHIANG KAI SHEK HAS ANNOUNCED THAT HE IS PROCEEDING IMMEDIATELY TO MANCHURIA.

HAS LEAGUE COUNCIL FAILED?

PARIS, November 19.

All sides are acknowledging the failure of the private sessions so far to advance an agreed settlement. A decision of some sort, however, probably will have to be taken at to-day's private meeting, even if the decision will only be to have a public session which will be a tacit admission of partial failure, as the aim so far has consisted of postponing an open discussion until the opposing viewpoints were moving towards a reconciliation. Thus it seems inevitable that the League will be forced to some course unpalatable to one or other of the disputants, perhaps both.

THE SECRET MEETING OF THE COUNCIL AFTER LASTING AN HOUR BROKE UP, NOTHING BEING ACHIEVED.

JAPAN TO PRESENT HISTORIQUE OF EVENTS

TOKYO, Nov. 19.

The reports that Japanese troops occupied Tsitsihar last night were apparently premature, latest Press despatches stating they entered at ten this morning, completing the occupation by noon. It seems they only occupied strategic points in the vicinity last night, but owing to the activity of Chinese troops within the city they decided it was necessary to enter and occupy the city to-day.

Mr. Yoshizawa, it is reported, is going to present a complete historique of the events leading up to the present situation in Manchuria, especially showing the reasons why Japan must insist on the binding recognition of China's obligation in respect to the Sino-Japanese treaties in connection with Manchuria.

A Chinese communication, which has been circulated through the League Secretariat, refers to the alleged kidnapping of the ex-Emperor Pu Yi, and his escortment by the Japanese to Mukden. It also states that the National Government had already declared to the League and friendly Governments that it will not recognise definite institutions established in subversion of Chinese administrative integrity in place of the North Eastern provinces occupied by the Japanese troops.

Mr. Yoshizawa remained with the Council all hour and three quarters but did not make a speech. He is reserving his speech for the public sitting which may be held to-morrow.

Dr. Alfred Sze left Quai D'Orsay at 7.45 p.m. and the meeting of the Council ended at five minutes past eight. There is to be another secret meeting to-morrow at 11 a.m.

SITUATION MORE SERIOUS

When Dr. Sze was received by the Council, he informed them that the situation in Manchuria had become very much more serious.

The proceedings at the meeting of the League Council to-day, were very slow when Mr. Yoshizawa replied to questions regarding the treaties between Japan and China. The Japanese representative spoke in his native tongue, which had to be translated into French and English.

The impression gathered in League circles is that the Council did not feel very much wiser at the end of the ordeal.

Dr. Alfred Sze spoke for an hour, and after leaving Quai D'Orsay said that various questions were put to him by the Council. These, it is understood, were in regard to the application of the treaties.

SETTLEMENT NOT YET IN SIGHT

The upshot of to-day's meeting is that the Council is still very far from a settlement of the issue. Apart from the technical difficulties and the wide gap between the Chinese and Japanese theses, the Council has also to keep step with General Dawes with whom collaboration is close and complete.

The most striking feature of to-day's proceedings was the proposal of the Japanese delegation that a Commission of Enquiry should be despatched to Manchuria, subject to the acceptance of the Five Points. It was pointed out, however, that the Japanese adhere to their original demands.

YOUNG CHINA RUNS WILD

DASTARDLY ATTACK ON ELDERLY LAWYER

ANTI-JAPANESE CAMPAIGN AT SHANGHAI

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

SHANGHAI, Nov. 19.

To-day there was an unprovoked and vicious attack on Mr. Ting Cheng Chun, an elderly lawyer, by Chinese students who were collecting funds to support General Ma Chan Shan, the Heilungkiang commander. The attack followed his refusal to donate to the fund inasmuch as he was sceptical as to whether the collectors were authorized agents, whereupon the students shouted and knocked off his hat and attacked him with fists and feet. The police intervened and escorted the victim to the Police Station, and several students were arrested.

Fifteen thousand students from colleges and schools have suspended work to conduct an anti-Japanese campaign.

WHERE IS PU YI?

LONDON, Nov. 18.

Questioned in the House of Commons regarding the reports concerning the ex-Emperor Pu Yi, Captain Anthony Eden, said reports had been received indicating that the late Emperor had proceeded from Tientsin to Mukden, but he was unable to confirm their accuracy, or state whether any attempt was being made to establish an independent Government in Manchuria.

SIR JOHN RETURNS TO LONDON

LONDON, Nov. 19.

Sir John Simon who was summoned to an important Cabinet meeting in London will not attend this morning's meeting of the Council. He has, however, promised to return as quickly as possible, consequently the critical decision may be delayed, pending his return.

CHEN'S MESSAGE TO CHINESE IN AMERICA

[CENTRAL PRESS.]

Mr. Eugene Chen, the Foreign Minister, has telegraphed the following message to the New York Kuomintang, in reply to a cablegram referring to the Tokyo dispatch in the American Press which stated that Chen had negotiated an agreement with Japan to make Manchuria a neutral zone under Japanese protection. The New York Kuomintang added that this report had aroused widespread suspicion among the Chinese community in America and Chen was asked to cable a statement on the subject. Chen's reply follows:—

Kuomintang, New York.
I deny and repudiate an utterly false and fantastic Tokyo dispatch that I have negotiated an agreement with Japan to make Manchuria a neutral zone under Japanese protection.

The policy of Canton is to save Manchuria not to lose it, though its loss not unlikely if Chiang Kai Shek is suffered to continue to play the role of dictator and master of China. Canton demands a national solution of the Manchurian question, a solution which shall conserve and safeguard the vital interests of the Chinese nation in that great region of extramural China, as opposed to Nanking's personal solution of the question in the interests of Chang Hsueh Liang and Chiang Kai Shek, who are responsible before the Chinese people for the present disastrous state of affairs in Manchuria. Canton looks to you to rouse all Chinese in America to a realisation and envisagement of Chiang Kai Shek as a real menace to the Chinese nation.

NEARING TSITSIHAR

FIGHTING IN THE SUBURBS

(Wah Tei Yat Pao.)

While unable to confirm the report of the fall of Anganchi to the Japanese, Chinese reports admit

ANTI-JAPANESE MOVEMENT.

BY NO MEANS SUBSIDED AT CANTON.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

CANTON, Nov. 19.

Registration of goods of Japanese origin in Canton, which was started about a fortnight ago under the direction of the Canton Chamber of Commerce, in accordance with the decision of the Anti-Japanese Boycott Committee, is being rapidly completed. The great majority of dealers in Japanese goods have complied, and practically no obstruction has so far been encountered. This is attributed to the tact and ingenuity exercised by the Chamber which is in charge of the registration.

At a meeting yesterday the Anti-Japanese Boycott Committee, in co-operation with the Canton Chamber of Commerce, the following items were decided:

(1) That the registration of goods of Japanese origin in Canton must be completed within the next 15 days.
(2) That all the registered goods of Japanese origin must be sold within the next 60 days.
(3) That if these goods are not sold within the time prescribed, they must be sealed up and stored until the Manchurian incident has been settled to the satisfaction of China, when they may be brought out for sale.

(4) That if these goods of Japanese origin are of a perishable nature and their owner can not dispose of them within the time prescribed, they must be brought to headquarters of the Committee where they will be auctioned. The money thus obtained will be returned to the dealer concerned.
(5) Anyone caught smuggling Japanese goods or breaking the seal of their goods thus registered and stored, a fine equivalent to one half of the price of the goods in question will be imposed as a penalty.

The anti-Japanese boycott and agitation are by no means confined to Canton. The interior of Kwangtung is just as active.

WEATHER REPORT.

Yesterday's weather report, forecast and remarks, issued by the Royal Observatory at 5.20 p.m., stated:—

The typhoon is less than 300 miles N.W. of Yap, moving W. or W.N.W. The anti-cyclone is central to the east of Korea and is moving E.

Local forecast:—N.E. winds, moderate; generally fine.

TYPHOON-WARNING.

The following typhoon warning has been received by the American Consulate-General from the Manila Observatory: Manila, Nov. 19, 11 a.m.—Typhoon in about 135deg; Long. E. and 12deg; Lat. N., moving W.N.W.

LLOYD GEORGE ON HEALTH TRIP

[BRITISH WIRELESS SERVICE.]

RUGBY, Nov. 19.

Mr. Lloyd George, accompanied by his family, is leaving England to-day on a health trip to Ceylon. He joins the P. & O. liner Comorin at Marseilles to-morrow. Mr. Lloyd George expects to resume active Parliamentary duties when he returns to England about the middle of January.

Newspapers state that during his voyage he will prepare a book of his war memoirs.

that five hundred Japanese troops made a surprise attack on the Chinese barracks in a suburb of Tsitsihar early this morning. Serious fighting is going on at Taching and Sanchienfangtze.

Another Chinese report states that a Chinese force under General Chien was engaged in a severe fight with the Japanese at Anganchi yesterday. General Chien is reported to be determined to defend Anganchi railway station which he is using as a base for his operations.

NANKING AND CANTON AS HOSTILE AS EVER.

(Wah Tei Yat Pao.)

CANTON, Nov. 19.

The Canton Government is surprised at a report from Shanghai to the effect that the Kuomintang National Congress, which is in session at Nanking, has adopted a resolution repudiating the minutes and decisions taken at the recent peace discussions at Shanghai concerning party and political problems with the exception of an agreement reached on diplomatic problems.

This contravenes, according to observers, tends to aggravate the strained relations between Nanking and Canton and internal peace prospects are as remote as ever.

KUOMINTANG AIMS.

REFORMS AND UNITY OF CHINA.

The publicity section of the Secretariat of the 3th National Kuomintang Congress has sent us the following translation of a circular telegram issued on the 17th by the Central Executive and Supervisory Committees of the Kuomintang in Extraordinary Session assembled, pertaining to the summoning of the 4th National Kuomintang Congress to be held on the 18th.

"For forty years, the Kuomintang Party has, in compliance with the Three People's Principles, led the people in a struggle for the downfall of imperialism externally, and the elimination of militarism and autocracy internally. Its chief object is to establish a government by the people and for the people."

"During the past years, despite the success of the Northern Expedition and the Unification of the country, the progress towards popular rule has been very slow, thus causing confusion in Party affairs. With the existence of a dictatorial regime, no reconstruction work has been started, and civil strife has been constant, in addition to the activities of Communist-bandits, and the flood of catastrophes so that the people have suffered untold hardships. Nothing is more deplorable than this state of affairs."

Manchuria.

"Taking advantage of the existence of the quasi-dynastic regime in Nanking which failed to bring peace and order, a neighbouring Power very recently invaded Chinese territory in Manchuria. During this critical situation, it is realized that the Revolutionary task can never be completed, unless a free united front is formed, hence the convention of the Preliminary Peace Conference in Shanghai."

"Six months have elapsed since the inauguration of the Extraordinary Kuomintang Session in Canton. Its object was to overthrow the dictatorship and to eliminate the Communist-bandits for the salvation of the country by political means. Now in order to meet the present requirement, decisions have been reached at the Peace Conference to present a united front in all diplomatic dealings, to rehabilitate Party affairs and to reform the military and political systems. For the settlement of the previous complications in the Party, the 4th National Kuomintang Congress opened in Nanking and to be opened in Canton, will reach the same decisions. All our Party members are hereby requested to sacrifice individual opinions and to be sincere to the Party, so as to struggle together for the reconstruction of China and the repelling of foreign aggression."

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

CANTON, Nov. 19.

The Honam Cement Factory, a Government enterprise, which has been closed for some months owing to lack of business, is about to resume operation. $100,000 has been appropriated from the Canton Municipal Treasury for the purpose. The enterprise is in charge of the Department of Reconstruction of the Provincial Government which has appointed Mr. Lau Kook Hou as managing director and Mr. Au Kee Wei as chief chemist. The machinery is being cleaned and re-oiled and the kilns repaired. No definite date has, however, been fixed as to when the factory will be opened for business.

ABNORMAL IMPORTS INTO BRITAIN

ANTI-DUMPING BILL ATTACKED IN COMMONS

[BRITISH WIRELESS SERVICE.]

RUGBY, Nov. 19.

The Anti-Dumping Bill was fiercely attacked on constitutional grounds during to-day's debate, the Opposition contending that the Government was exceeding its powers. The second reading of the Bill (officially entitled the Abnormal Importations Duties Bill) was moved by the Parliamentary Secretary to the Board of Trade, Mr. Hore Belisha (Lib.).

He answered the opposition arguments on constitutional grounds against the emergency powers conferred by the measure with the statement that it was not introduced for the purpose of taxation, but to keep goods out.

Any taxes levied, he said, would be in the nature of fines or compensations exacted at ports.

The Bill was intended to shelter those engaged in British industry from sporadic and irregular importations.

The remaining stages of the Bill in the Commons will be taken to-morrow. It is understood that the machinery for putting it into effect has been set up by the Board of Trade ready for operation at the shortest notice.

A detailed review of British overseas trade in October, published to-night by the Board of Trade, has a special interest in view of the Government's "anti-dumping" Bill.

The figures show that while the increase in imports in October this year, as compared with September, was $12,400,000, the increase over an average for October was seven millions.

It is stated that the excess of imports over exports of merchandise in the first ten months of this year was $323,200,000, or $10,500,000 more than the corresponding figure for last year, and that of this increase in the visible adverse balance of trade, over half occurred in October.

RUGBY, Nov. 19.

The procedure to be adopted during the remaining stages of the Indian Round Table Conference, was announced by Lord Sankey, who presided at a meeting of the Federal Structure Committee.

Following a long interchange of views this morning, the discussion of the "reserved subjects" is to be proceeded with, and at its conclusion Lord Sankey will draft a report on the Army and External Relations, Commercial Discrimination, and Finance, which is to be submitted to the committee before being sent on to the Plenary Conference for consideration. Meanwhile the date of the Plenary Conference cannot be fixed.

A considerable section of the committee, having reserved their opinion on these subjects, the Chairman said he was placed in a

SHANGHAI v. KOWLOON.

AN INTERESTING AND CHEERFUL DAY ON THE K.C.C. GROUND.

SOME ARE BORN BOWLERS, OTHERS ACQUIRE BOWLING. AND OTHERS HAVE BOWLING THRUST UPON THEM.

Another lovely day greeted Shanghai when they went over to play the K.C.C. It is a tribute to the fitness of our visitors that they insisted in playing their full thirteen men (who says it's unlucky?). E. C. Fincher, who had a slight strain, was able to bat and S. V. Gittins came into the side. I never quite discovered who the thirteenth man was.

A Running Account.

Leach won the toss and at ten past eleven Merritt and Kermani opened to Goodwin at the North end. Four byes came only. Burnett bowled at the other end, and one single came. Merritt was very lucky to steer one of Goodwin's next over just out of second slip's reach for a single. Things went very quietly for a time with both men bowling very well, and Burnett seemed to be swinging a good bit. Kermani hooked Burnett for four and Merritt, aided by the Shanghai team in the Pavilion, crashed Goodwin to square leg and to extra cover in the over. Twenty was up in as many minutes.

First Change.

Zimmerman went on but Merritt pulled him for four at once, and had another nice four to long leg off Burnett next over. At 42 Lylal relieved Burnett and sent down a maiden. In his next over, Merritt played back at one which came off very quick and his middle stump went back. (45-1-23.) The runs had been scored in thirty-five minutes. Barson played out a second maiden. Kermani appeared to have settled down and hit a four and a two off Zimmerman and a three of Lylal's last ball—the first runs from him. Goodwin bowled for Zimmerman and sent down a maiden. Kermani then straight-drove and late-cut Lylal for two beautiful fours in an over which brought ten runs, but next over he tried to hook Goodwin and hit the ball hard to Hung at forward short leg. (65-2-35.)

Leach In—and Out.

The Shanghai skipper then came in and took a quick single to cover off his first ball. He was showing a good deal of sound defence but played some nice strokes as the score mounted steadily until at 85 Leach smashed one back at Goodwin who caught it before he saw it. (85-3-11.) Hung relieved him, after Burnett had bowled for Lylal, and started with a wide. Coward gave a tremendously difficult chance to Lawrence at first slip. The ball went wide to his left hand about six inches high. He nearly held it and next over off Burnett he caught one wide on his right side of the same batsman. A pretty catch. (93-4-2.) Barson hit a good four but was nearly c and b the same over. Next over Booth sent the hundred with a four to long leg off Hung. At 110, further success came to Kowloon as Booth glanced one of Hung's and MacKay got across and made a pretty catch at the wicket. (110-5-8.)

Another Wicket.

Barson should have been caught at once off Smith, who had gone on at the South end. Lylal ran across from deep mid-on and got to the ball but failed to hold it. It must be remembered, however, that he was running into the sun. Luckily it made little difference as he dashed out at Zimmerman, bowling for Hung, and was quickly stumped by MacKay. (115-9-20.) Smith was dead out of luck for Madar was badly misgled off him by Gittins at backward leg.

A Free Batman.

Murray lived things up considerably when he came in and knocked Zimmerman about a good deal. He was out in a very unfortunate way as he went back and was hit on the leg. (The l.b.w. appeal failed but Robinson suddenly put up his hand and one realized that he had trodden on his wicket. He had made a pretty twenty-one. At 142 (and 12.55 p.m.) a brief interval foriffin was taken.

After Tea.

The game was resumed at 2.30 p.m. and Burnett bowled to Isaacs, who hit a four and seemed then to be caught at deep mid-on by Lylal, but at the last moment the ball slipped out of his hands. Goodwin bowled at the other end. Isaacs proceeded to hit some characteristic fours. At 165, Burnett got a much deserved wicket as Madar touched one that got up and it went through MacKay's glove to Lawrence at first slip, who made no mistake. (165-3-6.) Isaacs then proceeded to give a hard chance at mid-off and an easier one at deep leg off successive balls from Goodwin but neither were accepted. Nemesis awaited him, however, next over as he pulled one round hard and Skinner effected a very smart catch. (168-9-23.) Torry fell to his first ball, in spite of his endeavours to get used to the light.

Nothing of much moment happened for some time, though Elliott was playing some nice approach shots, well clear of all blunders. He made a gallant attempt to be stumped but MacKay did not gather the ball. Next ball, however, he hit a tremendous crack back as Goodwin who brought off his second brilliant c and b. (168-11-20.) A good innings to watch. Two hundred soon went up and the spectators were given a thrill when Simpson skied the ball to long leg, but the chance was dropped. In the last over Simpson hit two fours and a single to leg and then Cook was bowled having a bent. (216-12-10.) Simpson was not out—seventeen. Kowloon had bowled excellently but their catching was inadhesive. The innings closed at 3.30 p.m.

K.C.C. Bat.

Wilson bowled from the South end to Lawrence and MacKay. One run to Lawrence. Isaacs bowled at the North end, and Lawrence cut his first ball for four. After a maiden from Torry, Isaacs bowled Lawrence. MacKay put Wilson nicely to long leg for four. Things then went quietly for a long time. Elliott went on for Isaacs at 24, and MacKay got him nicely to the boundary at mid-wicket. Things again were quiet with E. F. Fincher playing a watchful knock, until Madar went on at the South end and kept the batsmen playing at him. At forty-one, he turned an off break inside MacKay's but and hit the off peg. Freddy Zimmerman met with the same fate (as far as I could judge) six runs later and, when one run afterwards, Ernie Fincher played a wretched shot at the slow bowler and skied one back to him, it looked as if Shanghai might win.

A Dogged Stand.

But there the measure of their success stayed and Gittins and Fincher proceeded to wear down the bowling. Leach relieved Elliott and bowled seven overs for eight runs while Madar never got knocked about. At last Leach realized that he could not hope to get down all twelve (!) wickets by half-past five and he proceeded to put the entire eleven on to bowl with the exception of Coward and Kermani, his two wicket-keepers. Then the batsmen began to brighten up, and some good forcing strokes. E. F. Fincher, who did not seem much the worse for his strain, hit five fours and Gittins, who played his usual attractive game, hit six. Finally, at 120, Booth, who was the tenth bowler tried, bowled Gittins—or so the score book said. Just before this Teddy had apparently been stamped off Cook, but was given not out, although his own estimate was that he was out by a foot. Hard lines on Cook (who will please note.) The game closed at 137 for five wickets, with Teddy Fincher not out forty and Willy Hung not out three.

Comments on the Game.

I shall reserve my general remarks for my "Reflections" which I hope will appear on Saturday morning. Suffice it to say that there has seldom been a more pleasant game on the K.C.C. ground. It is most unfortunate that the sailing dates prevented a two days match, as, up to four o'clock, the cricket was full of interest. It must be admitted that thereafter the game was taken in a very light-hearted way, and never in my life shall I forget seeing P. V. Simpson bowling with five slips. These spectacles (no reflection on Barson) come seldom to mortal man.

WEST END BLACKMAIL CHARGE.

ELECTION CANDIDATE AND FORMER NAVAL OFFICER.

"LISTENING IN."

A Parliamentary candidate and a retired naval officer figured in a case of alleged blackmail at Marlborough-street Police Court.

Charles Lester Ken (45), described as a company representative and director, of Carlton House, Regent-street, and Crawley-gardens, Ken-sington, was charged on a warrant before Mr. Hay Halkett.

That he did on divers dates between October 13 and 20, at Carlton House, with intent to extort a certain valuable thing from a man [whose name was suppressed by order of the magistrate], unlawfully directly or indirectly threaten to abstain from publishing a matter or thing concerning him.

Mr. Claude Hornby prosecuted and Kerr was defended by Mr. Elsie Zeitlyn. The magistrate ordered a remand, bail being allowed.

A Book of Cuttings.

Opening the case, Mr. Hornby said this was a prosecution for alleged blackmail of a prospective Parliamentary candidate in the ensuing election.

The alleged blackmail, went on Mr. Hornby, took place at an interview at Kerr's office, where a book of newspaper cuttings was produced. Kerr was alleged to have told the prosecutor that unless money was forthcoming these cuttings, relating to an incident in the prosecutor's would be broadcast.

There was, said Mr. Hornby, a further conversation by telephone to which two police officers listened in on two extensions. Later there was a further demand for money. This time it was suggested that the prosecutor should make application for shares in a company in which Kerr was interested, and on the prospectus of which his name appeared as director.

"I Deny the Charge."

"I understand," said Mr. Hornby, "the accused is a retired naval commander."

At that interview, he continued, it was suggested that there would be publicity before the election unless money was forthcoming, and a threat of an interview between Kerr and the secretary of the prosecutor's Parliamentary party on the following Saturday.

Detective-inspector David Bower, of New Scotland Yard, stated that he cautioned Kerr and told him he had a warrant for his arrest. Kerr said: "I am amazed." On the way to the station he said: "I am not clear about the charge."

When he was charged at Vine-street police station Kerr, said the inspector, replied: "I deny the charge altogether."

At Kerr's office, the inspector continued, he took possession of a book containing newspaper cuttings and a copy of a weekly journal, which had a name pencilled on it.

Mr. Hornby.—Is that the name of somebody mentioned in the telephone conversation?—Yes.

Inspector Bower said he also took possession of other letters and a diary which contained an entry dated October 20, referring to a hotel—12.30, and the word "here" was heavily underlined.

Mr. Zeitlyn applied for bail for Kerr. "We are most anxious to meet this charge," he said.

The magistrate remanded Kerr and allowed bail—himself in £200 and one surety in £200, or two in £100.

SCOTLAND YARD AND IRISH GUNMEN.

WATCHING THE PORTS FOR REBEL FUGITIVES.

MAY TRY TO ESTABLISH H.Q. IN ENGLAND.

Special measures are being taken by Scotland Yard to prevent the admission into Britain of certain Irish gunmen who have been driven out of the Free State by the passing of the new Public Safety Act.

Since the first reading of the Act in the Dail, Scotland Yard have been aware of the arrival in England of certain Irish suspects, and these are being kept under close observation.

What the English authorities fear is that such bodies as the Irish Republican Army, the Cumann na Mban (Women's League) and Saor Eire (Free Ireland—a Communist organisation), which, President Cosgrave states, have been concerned in a conspiracy against the Free State, will now try to make their headquarters in this country.

What the Yard is Doing. The matter has been the subject of conferences between Scotland Yard and the Home Office, and special branch detectives who are at the moment, owing to the election, freed from their usual duties of guarding Cabinet Ministers, will be concentrated on this work.

For the time being the naval detective watch at the ports will be augmented.

Meanwhile the grave warnings issued by the new Public Safety Council in Dublin are having good effect, both in the secession of youths from the ranks of the extremist organisations and in the abandonment of arms.

Some known gunmen have surrendered their arms, but others who are determined to hold out against the new Act have left the city—apparently for England.

TWO DEAD WOMEN IN TRUNKS.

BODIES LEFT IN STATION CLOAK-ROOM.

CLAIMANTS ESCAPE WHEN SUSPICION AROUSED.

Los Angeles.—Cloak-room officials at the railway station at Los Angeles have discovered the bodies of two women in trunks.

When a nun and woman called for the trunks the suspicions of the officials were aroused, and they refused to give the trunks up. The claimants then made off, being lost in a crowd at the station.

The officials, on opening the baggage, found the bodies of two women. Both bodies had been made unrecognisable.

Police Questions.

They are believed to be Mrs. Agnes Leroy and her room-mate, Miss Hedwig Samuelson. Mrs. Leroy was employed at a clinic at Phoenix (Arizona). One of the women had been shot.

The police say that the trunks were sent from Phoenix, the probable scene of the crime, to Los Angeles.

One of the bodies had been dismembered, presumably to fit into the smaller trunk.

The police are looking for Mrs. Ruth Judd, the secretary of the clinic at Phoenix, who is missing. Mr. Judd's brother, Mr. B. J. Kin-nel, and her husband, Dr. W. C. Judd, have been questioned by the police.
